What is ENGAGE?
Through person-centered planning and individualized supports, UNT ENGAGE helps neurodivergent students achieve their academic and vocational goals. ENGAGE provides academic case management and service coordination to address pre-employment, self-advocacy, self-management and social needs which in turn prepare participants for post-graduation employment and independence.

What services are available?
Person-centered Planning: ENGAGE works with students to develop a Person-Centered Plan (PCP) to address academic, employment and personal goals. The PCP is used to guide weekly one-on-one meetings, workshops and referrals to UNT and community partners.

One-on-one meetings:
Students meet with ENGAGE staff regularly (generally once a week, but individualized per student need) to take steps towards reaching their PCP goals. This includes, but is not limited to:
- Student mentoring and case management
- Open forum for students to discuss personal and academic issues
- Self-advocacy support and training
- Collaborative problem-solving
- Referrals as needed

Workshops:
ENGAGE staff facilitate and arrange specific workshops and social events to address students’ identified pre-vocational, academic, and social needs. Students can participate in these events to learn & practice skills necessary to reach their PCP goals. Topics include, but are not limited to:
- Disability Disclosure
- Resume and Cover Letters
- Time Management
- Interview Tips and Practice
- Study Skills
- Social Skills

Referrals:
ENGAGE staff will make referrals, as appropriate, to community and UNT partners who may provide support for student’s goals. Some common partners include, but are not limited to:
- Office of Disability Access
- UNTWELL
- Counseling and Testing Services
- Student Health and Wellness Center
- UNT Speech and Hearing Center
- UNT Career Center
- UNT Learning Center
- UNT Food Bank
- Eagle Chat social groups
The ENGAGE Process

Interested students must apply for the ENGAGE program before the deadline (see neurodiversity.unt.edu/engage for dates).

- An updated Psychological evaluation will be required and must be printed on official letterhead and contain the psychologist’s contact information. The evaluation should include a diagnosis; academic levels in reading, writing, and math; any mental health concerns (anxiety, depression, etc.); and possible communication and processing challenges the customer may have.
- The Psych. Evaluation is something that VRCs can consider providing for the customer.
- Once the customer submits the completed application, the customer will participate in an interview with ENGAGE to determine eligibility.
- If accepted into the program, a service authorization for initial intake and Person-Centered Planning will be required, along with relevant case notes, previous assessment results, and IPE to include ENGAGE services.
- ENGAGE will schedule a Person-Centered Plan meeting where semester-long goals will be agreed upon.
- A service authorization for student coordination and workshop hours for the upcoming semester will be required before ENGAGE services begin.

Note to VRCs:

ENGAGE is a growing and changing support service for Neurodivergent students. We therefore expect growth and changes related to our policies and procedures in the coming years. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact ENGAGE staff.
